

Kingsport Alliance for Continued Learning (KACL), in partnership with East Tennessee State University, was established in 1993 to provide adults, regardless of educational background or age, opportunities to attend stimulating courses, lectures and special events. A volunteer board of directors manages KACL and board members often serve as instructors. KACL greatly benefits from its ready access to ETSU faculty as they share their expertise in community outreach, as well as from talented local instructors with interesting topics.

Please join KACL as it celebrates 25 years of exceptional learning this spring with coffee and muffins on the first day of class, Tuesday, March 13, at 9:30 a.m. in Room 130!

Most classes are held on the campus of ETSU at Kingsport Downtown located in the Kingsport Center for Higher Education (KCHE), 300 West Market Street, near City Hall and the Justice Center. The exceptions are occasional field trips.

Classes are informal with no homework, grades or tests. They offer the opportunity to indulge your intellectual curiosity, engage in discussion, and enjoy a congenial and cooperative setting among friends and neighbors.

Not familiar with KACL? You may attend any one class free.

Registration begins February 20, 2018, by returning the enclosed Application for Membership along with a check for $25 made payable to KACL, ETSU at Kingsport Downtown. This fee covers all classes on this term's schedule, not per class. The fee covers as many classes as you would like to attend. Any events requiring additional fees (such as field trips) are clearly marked.

REFUNDS: No refunds will be made after the first week of the term (March 16, 2018). Requests for refunds must be made in writing and submitted to KACL. A $7.50 processing fee will be deducted from refunds.

PARKING AND ACCESS: Parking at KACHE is available in several city parking lots located on Market Street or in the Clay Street lot behind the building. To avoid citations, do not park in Congressman Phil Roe's parking lot located on the west side of the building. If you have parking questions, please call ETSU at Kingsport Downtown, 423-354-5200.

The classroom building may be entered through the two front, ground-level entrances located on Market Street. Physically handicapped members may enter through these doors. Persons with disabilities who require special assistance or seating are requested to call ETSU at Kingsport Downtown at (423) 354-5200 for arrangements.
